Trade Show sets record

BY JODI STYNER
Didsbury Review

A record crowd took in the 2007 Didsbury Trade Show last weekend, realizing the committee's promise that the show would be bigger and better than ever before.

No official attendance number was taken, but committee chair Kathleen Windsor said there's no question a record was broken when the gate fees were tallied.

"Yeah, we were absolutely up," she said.

"I was absolutely amazed – the number of people who came, the quality of the booths, the entertainment, the business support, the crowds for the fashion shows – it was just unbelievable."

The event took months of preparation and many volunteers to put together, but now that it's done and it went off without a hitch, Windsor said it was all worth it.

"When you see all the kids and the smiling faces and the exhibitors doing business, and the people in the food court, it was just good all over."

With exhibitor booths sold out for the first time in the show's history, the Best Booth competition was stiff.

For Trees took the title because it appealed to all the senses, said Windsor.

"You could hear the birds, you could smell, you were welcomed by the way the paths were organized and there were people in the booth who knew the answers to the questions," she said.

Second place Country Roads RV was commended for their attention to visitors and the "finishing touches" they provided.

Scrumptious Cake Decorating took third place honours for their enthusiasm and welcoming and gracious attitude.

This year's People's Choice award winners were Didsbury Lions and For Trees booths, both placed near the entrance.

"They just appealed to every little part of you," said Windsor.

The committee has planned an evaluation meeting next week and will begin putting together a budget for the 2008 show right away.

"I've already had probably three phone calls from committee members with new ideas for next year," said Windsor.

"If anyone has any ideas for next year, let us know."

HAPPILY EVER AFTER

Waterfowl like these two geese who nested at a wetlands west of Olds will benefit from funds raised at the 6th annual Didsbury /Carstairs Ducks Unlimited banquet April 14th.

Ducks Unlimited boosts local wetlands

BY JODI STYNER
Didsbury Review

With the 6th annual

er banquet just around the corner, you may be asking just what is this organization about?

Don't let the name fool you. Ducks are just one small part of the greater picture of preserving quality of life for all living beings from ducks, to deer, to beavers and, ultimately, humans, according to Bill Windsor, chair of Didsbury/Carstairs Ducks Unlimited.

The more we cultivate land and add chemicals to it, the harder it becomes for our wetlands to do their job as natural filters for impurities like sediment and pesticides.

"That's why Ducks is so important," he said.

With Canada's wetlands now diminished by an estimated 70 per cent since the early 1900s, Windsor said fundraisers like the upcoming banquet are vital to Ducks' cause.

"As we put more and more pressure on our water resources, the more important conservation efforts are going to become," he said.

"It's critical that we start recognizing the value of what we have here in our water resources."

Windsor is encouraged by attention given recently to water conservation efforts within the province, specifically a cooperative between the City of Calgary and Ducks Unlimited to ensure future water quality in the Bow River.

"There's now a moratorium on the water extraction from the Bow River," said Windsor.

"I expect there is going to be something similar, though it's not close to that yet, but there will be something in the Red Deer water drainage soon as well."

Windsor said Alberta is a little behind the eight ball on recognizing the importance of water conservation, but it's starting to catch up.

"Probably about 25 years ago they saw the importance of the deterioration of the water quality in Ontario, around the Great Lakes," he said.

"We're now starting to see it here in Alberta."

In its 55 years of operation, Ducks Unlimited has raised $170 billion for water conservation efforts nationwide.

The Carstairs/Didsbury chapter has raised in excess of $100,000 since its inception six years ago, and that money has stayed right here at home.

There are seven wetlands within an hour of Didsbury and Carstairs that Ducks Unlimited is working to retain or restore, and 94 per cent of funds raised locally go into those projects, said Windsor.

Combine that with funds the parent organization has injected for a total expenditure of $4.2 million on local water projects.

This year's banquet fundraiser, scheduled for Saturday, April 14 at the Didsbury Memorial Complex, promises to be the best yet, said Windsor. The event kicks off at 5:30 p.m. with a silent auction, games and raffles, followed by a roast beef dinner with all the trimmings.

Auctioneers Greg Sanderson and Jim Crawford, from Olds Auction Mart, will then host a live auction.

Tickets are available for $25 each or $250 for a table of 10.

Warrant issued for Haskett

A warrant for the arrest of Daniel Charles Haskett was issued last week after he failed to appear in Didsbury Provincial Court on an assault matter.

Didsbury RCMP Corporal Kevin Fischer said Haskett has since been located and re-released. Another court date will be set.

Haskett faces charges of assault causing bodily harm, possession of stolen property, and failure to attend court.

Details in the case are not being released at this time.

Meanwhile, Haskett is scheduled to go to trial May 24 on charges of animal cruelty related to an incident in October 2006 that led to the death of the Haskett family's dog, Daisy Duke.

Registration for Midway E.C.S. and Midway PLAYSCHOOL for the 2007-2008 school year.

Midway E.C.S. and Playschool are privately run and held in a classroom of the Midway Community School, east of Didsbury/Carstairs.

OK, I have been living with a neutral palette. I want some color on my walls. Are feature walls dated? Feature walls have "evolved" like so many other elements in interior decor. Many designers recommend using color on all the walls in the space. Be brave. Be current.

One feature wall has a place in some situations. The master bedroom for example: paint the headboard wall and let the color of the wall compliment or intensify the bedding. In many cases it can make a simple bed look magnificent.

In the living room, furniture arrangement can help you decide if you should paint a wall or two. Wrap color around the corner to create a space or a backdrop in your seating arrangement. Stand at the entry to the room and make sure your color doesn't change in a spot right in front of you.

A powder room is a fun place to be creative with paint colors. Once again, paint all walls the new color. People worry that darker colors will make the room seem smaller. This is the perfect space to prove this theory wrong. Using one darker color continuously can actually expand the space.

A block of color on one wall can provide a dramatic accent. Make sure you choose a space that deserves to be the focal point. A vertical band of color behind a frame print is a perfect example.

Don't forget your ceiling when you redecorate. Nothing says it has to be white. The right color on your ceiling can completely change the look of a room.

Don't be afraid, be informed.

It's easy to shop local first

I have to say that I disagree with comments made at the March 14 Town Hall meeting as reported in the March 20th issue of the Didsbury Review. It was reported that "there isn't sufficient retail available (in Didsbury) to support the Chamber's 'Local First' ideology".

Personally, from a retail point of view, I can find just about everything I need right here in Didsbury, with very few exceptions. My day-to-day purchases (food, gas, toiletries, most of my clothing), all can be readily found right here in town. If I can't find what I'm looking for, I ask the store owner if it can be brought in; nine times out of ten, it can.

As far as the service sector goes, Didsbury has doctors, optometrists, dentists, chiropractors, and massage therapists. There are physical fitness centres, lawyers, hair designers, accountants, financial planners, computer repairmen, insurance agents, stationery supplier, and financial institutions.

But that is not entirely the point.

The Chamber's "Local First ideology", as it was referred to, has always been that of an "awareness campaign". The Chamber has never said "Shop in Didsbury only". It has always said, "Look at Didsbury first."

The Chamber's own purchasing policy is to purchase from Chamber members first, Didsbury businesses next, then County businesses, and so on.

What we have to remember is that "shopping local" is not limited to Didsbury. A "shopping local" philosophy means keeping as many of your dollars in the area as possible. If you need a new fridge or dishwasher, and you don't find what you are looking for here in Didsbury (at Sears), then look to Olds as your second choice. What is critical is that we keep our hard-earned dollars circulating in the region. Don't forget, if Otto's AVU sees an increase in sales to Didsbury residents, they will be more likely to support a Didsbury hockey or minor ball team with their own sponsorship dollars, than if they see Didsbury residents buying in Calgary or Red Deer, and not supporting local businesses.

That's what shopping local is all about. Keeping our dollars circulating in our community. It can be done.

Pedestrian safety questioned

I have been thinking about this for some time now. I have lived here for about a year and a half. I live just off 23 St and 17 Ave. I walk uptown quite a bit. Between the speeding up 23 St and the drivers not stopping at the crosswalk, it is quite a dangerous adventure. There has been maybe one person who has stopped for me so that I could cross the street in the crosswalk!

The other day I was going uptown and, guess what, I had to wait for the car to go by. I got up a couple of blocks and there was a lady a couple of feet from a crosswalk. I could not believe my eyes when this lady got to the crosswalk and the Didsbury shuttle bus did not stop for her. This lady was standing there in plain sight, waiting at the crosswalk, when the bus got there and the driver kept on driving. If people are not going to stop for our elders, who are they going to stop for? Our children? Not likely, and we have quite a few go up and down that street.

Now to the speeders: I have rarely seen drivers do the posted speed limit for the Kinsmen park, the day care, the school (except when the guards are out).

I'm not talking about one or two drivers. I am talking about the majority of drivers who use 23 St. Something really needs to be done before someone gets hurt, or worse.

At the kitchen table

BY NOREEN OLSON
For the Review

There were no cows on the farm when we took over and it was several years before we had much in the way of a beef herd but gradually we bought a few head from neighbours or the Auction Mart, kept some of our own heifers, culled the less attractive, the old and the cranky and finally had quite a lovely bunch of sleek and shiny, mostly sweet-tempered, red and black, Angus cows. In the early years we had a few Hereford bulls so some of our cows have brockle faces, there are two with white tails so there must have been a Pinzgaur strain back there somewhere and there are a couple with just a hint of shaggy bangs to remind us of two Highland heifers ago.

It probably took us ten years to build the herd to what we felt our pastures could handle and now for the past four or five years we have been gradually cutting back to what we think we can handle. This means there have to have been at least 25 years when we had what we felt was all the cattle this farm could manage. That's forty calving seasons of late night and early morning checks and who knows how many assisted births and slogs through the mud. Who knows how many times we had to put a cow in the squeeze and hold a weak or just plain stupid calf up to a flaccid teat and how many times did we milk out a few precious cups of colostrum and pour it down the throat of a calf that had no will to live. There were cows who had twins and raised them splendidly and then there were cows who had twins and totally refused the responsibility of more than one child. Last year a cow had two babies and accepted both of them but one fell into the spring, had to be rescued, and after the calf had been dried and warmed in the house the mother wouldn't take it back. We locked them up together and augmented the rejected child with bottles until it learned to steal. She has twins again this year and is cheerfully feeding them both.

For many years if a cow lost her calf we would buy a calf from the Auction Mart or from a dairy and try for an adoption. Once in a while we would get a cow with a strong maternal instinct who would take on an orphan child with minimum encouragement, but these happy alliances were rare. More often we kept cow and calf confined for days and gave the cow extra grain until she gradually quit trying to smack the calf into the next corral. If the calf was strong and aggressive there was hope but if the calf stood back and looked pitiful it was a long and frustrating process. Usually the cow and calf come to an understanding but they rarely bond and an adopted calf never looks really well groomed.

We are nearing the end of what is probably our last calving season and there are a lot of emotions involved. On a cold and dreary day when a cow is taking too long to deliver I can only think, "we are too old for this, I don't want to go out there and grapple with ropes and chains and we should have quit two years ago." But when the calf is safely delivered, struggles to its feet and is joyfully welcomed by its mom I think, "is this the last time we will get to witness this miracle, maybe we should keep them one more year."

This year's twins are not much bigger than fawns and they are so cute and clean and filled with innocence and wonder. The big guy that we had to help was stiff and sore for a day or two but now he is bouncing in the sunshine and towers over the twins. From my office window I can see into the maternity pen where a brand new red one is being cleaned by a very proud and protective mother and further away, in the outer pasture, a cluster of mothers and babies lie in fresh dry bedding and bask in the sun.

Our grandchildren are three and five and it's a big thing to go out on the GATOR and see the cattle. Will they be old enough to remember seeing baby calves at Grandpa's farm? Maybe we should keep a few for just one more year.

Tickets for Homecoming '07 on sale

Didsbury High School alumni and residents of Didsbury are encouraged to pay tribute to our rich museum and school heritage during the Homecoming '07 event this Labour Day Weekend.

This year celebrates the 50th anniversary for the class of 1957 and the 45th for the class of 1962, as well as the 100th birthday of the sandstone school building that now houses the Didsbury and District Museum.

"People need to get tickets quick if they want to attend the dinner. They're a hot commodity."

ELAINE McCOY
Homecoming '07 committee

With only 300 tickets available for the banquet dinner, those interested are urged to register as soon as possible.

"People need to get tickets quick if they want to attend the dinner," said Elaine McCoy.

"They're a hot commodity."

The $35 registration fee includes all meals and events.

Pre-registrants do not have to be DHS alumni. Anyone who attended high school in Didsbury at any time is eligible to register for the activities. Individuals not wishing to register for the banquet and scheduled events are welcome to stop in and visit old classrooms.

The 13 members comprising the Homecoming '07 committee have been busy preparing for the festivities, with help from museum president Dale Peters and director Shirley Dorin.

New on the list of activities this year are a "Drive Down Memory Lane" contest that tests guests' skills in identifying former landmarks around Didsbury, a visit to the new high school, tours of the museum and Didsbury's heritage homes.

A variety show featuring the talents of generations of DHS students will wrap up the weekend.

A memory book is being compiled for display, as well as the committee is looking for your help.

If you have a particular remark or remember a "saying" used by a teacher, student or staff member, a special place, occasion, sports or music event submit it to Mary Lee Kohut at RR 2 Didsbury, or Ann Neufeld at Box 1829, Didsbury. You can reach Mary Lee at 335-8860.

Submissions can also be dropped off at the museum.

Any questions regarding Homecoming '07, or to register, contact Elaine McCoy at memdidsbury@shaw.ca or Denny Sinclair at salty1@telus.net.

Look for more information on Homecoming '07 in upcoming issues of the Didsbury Review

Midgets win league championship

"In the playoffs, will beats skill." You may be familiar with that quote from within the ranks of hockey. Whether you are or not, the Didsbury Midget Hockey Team proved it to be only part right. Both will and skill were needed for the Didsbury Midgets to be victorious in the final round of the playoffs to gain the title of Central Alberta Hockey League Midget Tier 2 Champions!

The Three Hills Prairie High Midget Sabres who finished first overall in the league were to be Didsbury's challengers for the championship title. Going into this series, Didsbury had a 1-1 league record with the Sabres, both close games (3-2 and 8-7). The first playoff game of the best of three was played Tuesday, March 20th in Three Hills. Not much can really be said about the game and no goal summary can be supplied for Didsbury. The boys did not score and didn't really show up for that game. They were, however, totally insulted by the Sabres' seven goals against them that night. To add injury to insult, on a clean check, Nic Renggli came out of the game with a fractured arm that would sideline him for the remainder of the season. The boys would miss his determination and aggressive play in the games to come. Three Hills took off for a Montana hockey tournament following that game and a week to regroup was welcomed by Didsbury. The 7-0 loss was not to be a deterrent for Didsbury and they hit the ice focused and energized and with payback on their minds for Game 2. The teams travelled to Innisfail to play Didsbury's home game on Tuesday, March 27th. The Didsbury Midgets were a force to be reckoned with and the Sabres were overwhelmed with the forechecking, backchecking and the skill and will of their opponent. Tyler Lehucik was in the net and stopped a whopping 29 of 30 shots - what a super game Tyler played! He was helped by the players in front of him with outstanding, hard-hitting defence and tenacious, unrelenting offence and Didsbury, shooting 30 times, scoring two in the 2nd period and one in the 3rd won the game 3-1! Goals came from Tyler Facey (2) and Tyler Owen (1). Assists went to Jeff Choquette, Kelly Kohut (2) and Randy Hunter. Game three proved to be just as tough on Three Hills with most of the play being in their end. Three Hills could only tally 22 shots during the game with Didsbury's D-men - Zac McCargar, Colby Wenckowski, Jeff Kerr and Jeff Choquette providing little opportunity for the Sabres to get a shot off. The shots that the Sabres could muster up were skillfully stopped by goalie Mike Howden and he broke their hearts on a couple of occasions with what appeared to be sure goals. Didsbury attacked for a total of 32 shots, scoring four in the 1st period, one in the 2nd, and one in the 3rd. Though their names did not appear on the game sheet in the point tally, forwards Nick Hutcheon and Zac Owen worked relentlessly forechecking and pushing the puck forward and their efforts did not go unnoticed. Goals came from Alix Hutcheon, Kasey Eichhorst, Tyler Facey, Kelly Kohut and Randy Hunter (2). Assisting the goals were Alix Hutcheon, Jeff Kerr, Jan Milne, Kelly Kohut (2), Tyler Facey (2) and Randy Hunter (2). Unable to play in Game 3 of the finals, but being valued members of the team all season, Tyler Erickson and AJ McCoy were in the game in spirit and they hit the ice for the final celebration.

It goes without saying that for the players, the coaching staff (Al McCoy, Brent Hutcheon, Gord Kerr) and for the parents, this was a perfect ending to a great hockey season!

Congratulations to the Didsbury Midgets - CHAMPIONS - Tier 2 Central Alberta Hockey League! Will and Skill did prevail!

MIDGET CHAMPS

ATOM CHAMPS

Atoms persevere to take league championship

With a lot of heart and determination, this year's Atom Ramblers truly beat the odds to become league champions.

At the start of the season it was clear to the coaching staff that this Atom crew had quite a combination of skills, size, and attitudes. For the team to have any success we had to focus on fundamental skill development, get all the players a "team first" attitude, and get everyone to realize what their strengths were and how to work with them.

In the first five games, we just couldn't seem to get on a roll, and resulted in a move from Tier 3 to Tier 4. We felt we were better than that and the kids took up the challenge to show the tiering committee how wrong they were.

We set a team goal to win the league. During our own host tournament, although we didn't rack up a lot of wins, we really started to gel as a team and the younger group of kids began to get some confidence.

After Christmas we started to play well, and won most of the games in January, putting us in position to push for a first place finish in our division.

Tournaments in Crossfield and Olds saw a few upsets, some hard fought wins and, ultimately, confidence that they could win the tough games if they all played as a team.

In a tough series against Crossfield, who played well enough to sneak into fourth spot, and then really executed their game plan to a T to knock off first place Cochrane, there was a bit of a grudge match. It was Crossfield who had argued so hard to have us moved down to Tier 4 with them. With the biggest defence-man in the league and the league scoring champion, Crossfield would be hard to beat. But with Ryan Dodyck and Dylan Coney constantly frustrating him, and the other forwards banging up the defence-man, Didsbury dominated the games to win in two straight.

Finally, the league championship series, against a team we hadn't even seen, Hussar. These guys had won 19 games straight coming into our series. They had four of the top eight scorers in the Blue division, and strong fan support. The first game Didsbury jumped out early with a 4-1 victory, but good teams don't give up and Hussar didn't. They fought back and the final ended up 7-6 for Didsbury. Taylor Howell played his best game of the year in net, making numerous big saves. Moving Colin Northcott back to defence gave us a little better puck handling and a hard point shot, and the other d-men stepped up their physical play to protect the net. We got strong play from all the forwards, especially Ben Strautman and Tim Kreuter, Nolan Lanthier, Jeff Griffiths, Irwin Mahon, Tyler McKenna and Braden Whidden to name a few.

The Ramblers had a league championship banner in mind the next day in Hussar but it was not to be, with a glorious opportunity of a 5 on 3 in overtime, the puck seemed to bounce the wrong way, and Hussar's league leading scorer burnt us, setting up game three, back in Hussar.

The Hussar fans had a huge impact on the second game, and they hoped for a repeat in game three on Sunday. The game started out end to end, it was an extremely physical battle, as Hussar seemed to think they could beat us down physically and mentally. It was extremely rewarding for all the coaches to see the kids just keep plugging away, Hussar was determined to hack and slash guys down hoping they would either give up or retaliate.

The Didsbury kids did the association proud, with our defence-man Ian Petersen, Julian Gerber, Zack Mierke, and Kelly Wallace shutting down all Hussar's scorers. Even if one did slip through, there was the Rambler goalie Ty Sawatsky waiting for them with arguably his best effort of the year, (their top kids wouldn't even get a point). With Zac Overwater, Brendan McInnis, Kelly Wallace and Nick Comeau finding the net, combined with the team attitude that said "You will not beat us" we pulled away for a hard fought 6-2 win.

Our fans were so awesome in overwhelming the Hussar parents with noise and support that I'm sure the team may not have done as well without them.

The team then travelled to Edmonton for a multi provincial tournament to wind up the year; there were teams from Yellowknife and as far away as Inuvik. The kids participated in a skills competition Saturday night with Ryan Dodyck winning as the fastest Atom skater there.

We had to beat three teams in tier 4 (Edmonton, Prince George, and Sexsmith) to earn the right to compete for the crossover championship against a tier three team. We drew the home team's tier three team for the final Sunday morning. All the year's work payed off as three of the four goals came from next year's stars and the Ramblers pulled out a big final win 4-3. Overall, throughout the season the coaching staff couldn't tell you what our won-lost record was, but we can say we won all the big games we had to win, and that's all we need to remember.

The Atom Ramblers would like to thank all of the people who made this season possible.

Our manager Cassandra Petersen, who not only had to look after 19 young players, but had to put up with a coaching staff who sometimes would have to phone the night before to ask, "Where we playing tomorrow again?" (Chris) The DMHA board of directors, thank you for all you do, it's usually a thankless job, but here it is: Thank you! It's a tough job; every decision affects every one differently, and you guys (and girls) have to keep the kids first. You did it. To all of the parents, thank you for allowing us to work with your kids for another year. To the referees, I can honestly say this is the best group of young (and old) referees that we have had in a long time. The games were fair, the refs were approachable on issues, and respectful to the coaches and players. Thank you to all the sponsors and all who put in time with the team this year as a parent, coach or fan.

Finally, to all the kids who play the game, thanks for putting up with the coaching staff, crazy travel schedules, crazy fans, and the constant demands on you to put in your daily best. YOU DID IT!
